Tennessee Sports Concussion Law

In April 2013, Tennessee became the 44th state to pass a sports concussion law designed to reduce youth sports concussions and increase awareness of traumatic brain injury.

Both public and private school sports and recreational leagues for children under age 18 that require a fee are affected by the new law. The law covers all sports. This website contains all the resources coaches, youth athletes and parents need to fulfill the intent of the law.

New Requirements from this legislation:

Coaches, Parent / Student-Athlete Forms – The new requirements of this law include forms for coaches, parents, and student-athletes to sign acknowledging that they are aware of the signs, symptoms, and dangers of concussions. We would encourage each school to include these forms in your Pre-Participation Physical Examination/Parental Consent paperwork. The Coaches Form can be found here. The Parent / Student-Athlete Form can be found here.

CDC Checklist – Persons who remove athletes from competition for showing signs and symptoms of a concussion are now required to use the CDC Concussion Signs and Symptoms Checklist when evaluating the athlete. We would suggest that your coaches have these forms on hand at practices and competitions in the event that an athlete has to be removed from an activity after displaying signs or symptoms of a concussion. The completed form should be made available to the physician that evaluates the student for return to play. The procedures and return to play guidelines in the new law are very similar to those required in the TSSAA Concussion Policy. In fact, the TSSAA Concussion Policy is slightly more restrictive. Therefore, by continuing to follow the TSSAA Concussion Policy, along with utilizing this checklist, you should be in compliance when removing athletes from competition and returning them to play. The CDC Concussion Signs and Symptoms Checklist can be found here.

Annual Online Education for Coaches – Coaches must complete either the NFHS online course entitled “Concussion in Sports, What You Need to Know” or the CDC online course entitled “Heads Up Concussion in Youth Sports” annually. Persons wishing to complete the NFHS course will have to register here. After you have registered, you may access the course by logging in here. Persons wishing to complete the CDC course entitled “Heads Up: Concussion in Youth Sports” may access the course here. We would encourage you to complete the NFHS course. It is geared more for the interscholastic coach and allows you log in and out without having to start over. Both courses are about 20-25 minutes in length.
